Bali's Nyepi 2024 Celebrations: Traditional Ogoh-Ogoh Parades Suspended

Bali's iconic Ogoh-Ogoh processions, a staple of the island's Hindu New Year festivities on the eve of "Nyepi" – the day of complete quietude, will not occur in 2024.

Nyepi's date varies annually in the Gregorian Calendar, aligning with the Balinese Saka

Calendar. This year, from 6:00 a.m. on 11 March 2024 to 6:00 a.m. the next day, a strict silence mandate is in effect. Observers adhere to Catur Brata Penyeopian, involving:

Amati Geni: Abstaining from fire, light, and electricity

Amati Karya: Refraining from work

Amati Lelungan: Avoiding travel

Amati Lelanguan: Eschewing entertainment

During Nyepi, Bali transforms into a serene landscape, with empty streets and dark, quiet homes. Pecalang, local security officers, ensure adherence to Nyepi's practices.

Ogoh-Ogoh, towering papier-mâché sculptures, are traditionally showcased by community groups in a vibrant pre-Nyepi night parade. However, after a break due to the COVID-19 pandemic, Bali's Provincial Government has cancelled the island-wide Ogoh-

Ogoh contest for 2024.

Communities can still create Ogoh-Ogoh for local display, but the spirited effigy contest will not occur in 2024. NusaBali.com quotes I Nyoman Wisandika, head of Buleleng Regency's Cultural Office, confirming the province-wide decision against any regency or municipal level contests for Hari Suci Nyepi Caka 1946.

Announced on 11 January 2024, the decision reflects a collective provincial agreement.

Historically, regional governments have sponsored Ogoh-Ogoh contests with subsidies and prizes.

For 2024, while community groups are encouraged to craft Ogoh-Ogoh, there will be no inter-village competitions, with displays limited to local communities.

And The Story Continues

British National First Deportee From Bali In 2024

A 42-year-old British man has become the first foreigner to be deported by the Indonesian Immigration Department in Bali in 2024. The man officially overstayed his visa on arrival by 24 days, but has been held in detention since the end of November last year due to difficulties in obtaining funds to pay for his flight.

According to reports, the funding problem was addressed and resolved with the help of the British Embassy, but due to administrative problems and the Christmas and New Year holidays, it took a little longer than expected. The visibly relieved man, who was seen smiling in photographs taken at Bali's Ngurah Rai International airport, was finally put on a flight back to the UK on January 5.

The second deportee from Bali in 2024 happened to be a Kazakh national who was in Bali on an investment visa. But instead of sticking to the purpose of his visa, he decided to become a swimming coach, which was probably not the best idea. We couldn't find any information on how the authorities came across his change of profession, but a Kazakh swimming coach in Bali might have some difficulties staying under the radar.

On January 10, just five days after the British man was deported, he was finally put on a plane back to Kazakhstan.

It took just 10 days into 2024 for 2 foreigners to be deported from Bali and they are likely to be only the first of a long list we'll see before the end of the year.

According to a report by Balidiscovery, the famous Ogo-Ogoh parades on the eve of Nyepi, the traditional Balinese day of silence, have been canceled island wide for 2024.

While Balidiscovery quotes Nusabali.com as saying that the head of the Buleleng Regency Cultural Office, I Nyoman Wisandika, has stated that all the regencies in Bali have agreed to cancel the Ogoh-Ogoh parades in 2024, all the reports we could find only say that the annual Ohoh-Ogoh competitions, in which creators of the giant paper mache figures can win substantial sums of money, largely funded by the local government, have been canceled due to lack of funds. It remains to be seen whether the popular parades will be affected.

No Ogoh-Ogoh Parades In 2024? Ogoh-Ogoh Competitions Canceled - But Will The Parades Take Place?

This year, Nyepi falls on March 11. As always, no one in Bali is allowed to leave their house, or in the case of tourists, their hotel, from 5:59am until 6am the following morning. Bali's Ngurah Rai Airport is closed and no flights arrive or depart during this time. There are several other rules to follow on this day, including no lights at night, no noise, no working, no cooking and of course no traveling. Local security guards, the Pecalang, will be patrolling the streets to ensure everyone's safety and that everyone really does stay at home. Over the years, several tourists and even locals have been caught on the streets by the Pecalang, which usually results in their immediate return to their accommodation or temporary detention until the next morning, depending on their level of kindness and obedience.

Promoting Sport Tourism in Bali: PCI Launches 'Bali Bash International' Logo

The Indonesian Cricket Association (Persatuan Cricket Indonesia/PCI) has taken a strategic step to support sports tourism in Bali by officially launching the 'Bali Bash International' logo in August of this year. This initiative is part of PCI's efforts to invite friendly nations to participate in matches against the Indonesian Men's and Women's national teams in various tournament series. The logo launch serves as an open invitation to all interested countries to participate in the Bali Bash International in 2023 and 2024 at the Udayana Bali field. The Bali Bash International logo reflects the spirit of unity, sports, and tourism. The goal of this event is not only to promote cricket as a profound sport but also to strengthen Bali's allure as a destination that combines the experience of sports and the breathtaking beauty of nature.

Bali, as a destination, has various flight access points from around the world, making it convenient for visiting teams to experience the beauty of the island. Bali Bash International not only brings entertaining and exciting competitions but also serves as a platform to strengthen relations between nations and expand the reach of sports tourism in Bali. Since its launch in August 2023, Bali Bash International has garnered attention from various countries and successfully organized its first event in November with series matches between Indonesia vs. Cambodia and Indonesia vs. the Philippines in December. All these matches were broadcasted live through various platforms, allowing the global audience to witness how PCI organizes international events. Looking ahead, PCI plans to invite friendly nations every month in 2024 to further popularize the Bali Bash International. Currently, PCI is exploring collaborations with several countries in Southeast Asia, the Middle East, and East Asia. This initiative opens up significant opportunities for Bali as a sports tourism destination that captures global attention.

Bali Blast International Logo Launch: Expanding Cricket Reach at Club Level

In its latest initiative, the Indonesian Cricket Association (PCI) has unveiled its second logo aimed at supporting the development of Sports Tourism in Bali, named 'Bali Blast International.' Unlike previous 'Bali Bash International,' which encourages inter-nation matches for national teams, PCI has created a platform for Cricket Clubs, both in Indonesian and abroad teams, to compete in T10 and T20 format matches. The main goal of organizing this tournament is not only to support sports tourism in Bali but also to provide an opportunity for cricket enthusiasts not affiliated with the national team to channel their passion for the sport on the field. The Bali Blast logo reflects the concept that cricket can be played by anyone, with ornaments depicting the spirit of participation felt by every cricket player. The surrounding circle represents the cricket unity formed by Bali Blast itself. With innovative steps like these, PCI aims to expand the coverage and participation in cricket, not only at the national team level but also at the club level, both domestically and internationally. Through these activities, it is hoped that cricket will continue to grow and become more inclusive, providing opportunities for sports enthusiasts to compete and enjoy a constructive experience on the field. The Bali Blast series is expected to unfold throughout 2024 with the participation of clubs from various parts of the world.

Road to National Games Aceh-North Sumatera

The 21st National Games (PON) for the Aceh-North Sumatra region in 2024 officially launched its logo, mascot, and tagline on January 28, 2024, in Banda Aceh, Aceh, and on January 29, 2024, in Medan, North Sumatra. The event was attended by the Secretary-General of PP.PCI, Albert Tangkudung, accompanied by Prakash Vijaykumar. Both participated in a visitation activity by the Supervisory and Directorate Committee (Panwasrah) of PON from the National Sports Committee (KONI) Headquarters. The visitation itinerary included visits to the Baharuddin Siregar Stadium, Sport Center Sumut, and fields. Several options for the location of the Cricket PON XXI field were carefully considered. PCI had started early preparations for PON to ensure the smooth running of the multi-event. After conducting the Qualification Round, enthusiasm among all parties involved in PCI grew as the four-yearly PON approached. In facing the construction of the cricket field facilities in North Sumatra, the Technical Delegation of PP.PCI, Albert Tangkudung, held an audience with the Head of the Youth and Sports Office of North Sumatra Province on October 16. The result of the audience established the use of the "Smart Field" in Deli Serdang Regency as the location for the cricket field. At the same time, from November 15-18, 2023, PCI received an invitation from the Indonesian National Sports Committee (KONI) Headquarters to attend the visitation and finalization activities for the sports branches that would compete in North Sumatra at the 21st National Games in 2024. The activities included visits to the competition venues, finalization of venues, and the completion of equipment and competition devices.

PCI conducted venue visits and finalization involving representatives from the Youth and Sports Office of North Sumatra Province, PB.PON, PCI Sumut, and met with the Assistant Regent for Economy and Development of Deli Serdang Regency, Mr. Khoirum Rijal. A positive decision was made to use the Smart Field owned by Deli Serdang Regency, awaiting the 'Decision Letter on the Appointment of Cricket Venue' from North Sumatra Province. The Smart Field itself has two ball fields that can be rehabilitated into two cricket fields in Lubuk Pakam, Deli Serdang. The Chairman of PP.PCI, Abhiram Singh Yadav, believes that the new field to be used in PON XXI can host international tournaments, contributing to Sports Tourism in North Sumatra. Thus, neighboring countries that usually compete in Bali can also compete on the cricket field in North Sumatra.

Only A Misunderstanding?

Taxi Driver Accused Of Threatening Tourists With Knife Released From Police Custody

It seems that the taxi driver who was arrested and accused of threatening two American tourists with a knife to extort money in Seminyak earlier this month won't face any legal consequences for his actions. According to the latest reports, the object used by the driver was not a knife but a folding fan, and the alleged extortion was nothing more than a misunderstanding over the price of the fare.

The case went viral after two female American tourists posted a video online showing them interacting with the visibly aggressive and violent driver over the fare. Besides being cleared by the police of brandishing a sharp weapon, the driver only admitted that he repeatedly tried to hit his passengers during the heated argument but missed them. In most other parts of the world, that would get him charged with attempted assault.

As outlined in recent reports, the fare misunderstanding began when the two girls entered the taxi and asked the driver for a price, to which the man replied "50". While no one in Indonesia would expect a taxi driver to quote a fare in US Dollars instead of Indonesian Rupiah, this is reportedly what the man meant. Not only is this illegal under a law that requires all prices in Indonesia to be quoted in Indonesian Rupiah, but it is probably just a lame excuse by the man trying to get out of police custody. The fact that he reportedly tried to sell his taxi and immediately left the Bali after the case went viral doesn't make his claims any more plausible.

Stay Connected

Klungkung Government To Improve Internet Access On Nusa Penida

While mobile data coverage in Bali is already much better than in some western countries, there is one area that lags significantly behind the rest of the province and that is Nusa Penida. Now the acting interim regent of Klungkung, I Nyoman Jendrika, has confirmed to reporters that he is taking the island's connectivity problems seriously.

Jendrika said that he would put pressure on the relevant parties to resolve the connectivity issues, adding that this was not just for general internet access but also for mobile signal coverage, and that he had instructed Klungkung's Diskominfo teams to collect data on the white spots on Nusa Penida. Once this data has been collected, Telecom operators will be brought in to survey areas and determine how to bring mobile coverage, mobile data coverage and WiFi access to those areas.

Jendrika also pointed out that the problem needed to be solved quickly, given the large number of visitors to Nusa Penida, Nusa Lembongan and Nusa Ceningan, and the fact that connectivity is a basic need these days. While local tourists to the small islands off Sanur usually have their mobile data packages with them and can access the internet in many areas, international tourists struggle to find reliable wifi access even in local restaurants or hotels. The situation has improved in recent years, but the connectivity problems are far from being solved.

It's nice to see that someone is finally addressing the internet connectivity problems on the three little islands. But as it may take some time to finally address and solve the problem, be prepared for some connectivity issues if you visit Nusa Penida, Lembongan or Ceningan.

An Early Award

Bali Ranked 2nd On Tripadvisor 2024 Top International Travel Destinations List

Despite the fact that 2024 has only just begun, Bali has once again been ranked as the second best international travel destination on Tripadvisor's 2024 "Travelers' Choice Best of the Best" list. Bali was only beaten by Dubai in first place, and is followed by London, Hanoi and Rome in third to fifth place. Based on Bali's top 5 rankings in recent years, this latest award comes as no surprise.

"Travelers' Choice Awards Best of the Best winners are destinations whose hotels, restaurants and things to do received a high volume of above-and-beyond reviews and opinions from our community over a 12-month period. Fewer than 1% of Tripadvisor's 8 million listings are awarded Best of the Best, signifying the highest level of excellence in travel," Tripadvisor states on its award website.

It seems that despite the massive and ever-worsening traffic problems that Bali has faced over the past year, most travelers have had a good time on the island. This is probably mainly because the reviews are not of Bali in general, but of hotels, tourist attractions and restaurants. Unfortunately, most of the comments we've seen online lately tell a different story, but that's only one part of the package. In general, Bali is still very much worth a trip.

Minister Of Tourism Proposes Water Taxis To Solve Bali's Traffic Problem

Indonesia's Minister for Tourism and Creative Economy, Sandiaga Uno, has come up with another idea to solve Bali's massive traffic problem. Speaking to reporters in the wake of the recent chaos over the Christmas and New Year holidays, where thousands of cars were stuck in hours-long traffic jams to and from Bali's Ngurah Rai Airport, forcing tourists to abandon their transport vehicles and walk to the airport to catch their flights, Uno suggested the use of water taxis, adding that this could provide a viable solution in both the long and short term.

This is actually not a new idea and some companies such as GoBoat have already tried to implement these services between Canggu and Uluwatu. Unsurprisingly, the idea, initially hailed as a great solution, didn't last long after tourists who tried the service raised safety concerns. The route chosen by GoBoat is prone to rapidly changing sea conditions and even local fishermen tend to steer clear of some of the areas along the route.

Perhaps aware of this past failure, Uno proposed to start the Sea Taxi service by connecting the most popular tourist areas such as Canggu, Kuta and Jimbaran. But he didn't take into account the constant resistance of Bali's traditional taxi drivers and co-operatives to new forms of transport. Despite the fact that online taxi companies have been operating legally in Indonesia for years, many local taxi drivers are still on a mission to prevent app-based transportation services from operating in certain areas of the island. They have even complained about the new SMART@Ubud free electric shuttle bus service, saying it is stealing their business. So we're not sure if the introduction of a sea taxi service would go down well with these guys.

However, while the seas off Canggu, Jimbaran and Kuta are usually relatively calm, running such a weather-dependent sea taxi business, especially during the rainy season, is a huge risk. It also requires a significant investment in boats, peers and other support facilities such as ticket counters, as well as a huge amount of logistical and safety measures. In addition to these difficulties, it is questionable whether these sea taxis would be able to alleviate any significant amount of traffic congestion. As most of the road infrastructure in most areas in the south of Bali is simply unable to cope with even a slightest uptick in the number of vehicles, these water taxis are unlikely to have any measurable impact.

We are 100% sure that Minister Uno is fully aware of the difficulties this new sea taxi service would face, which is probably the reason for his next statement saying that road users in Bali need to be patient for the moment and that the government is working on other solutions such as the planned underground Light Rail Train (LRT) system connecting the airport with Kuta and Legian. If all goes to plan, the provincial government will break ground on the new LRT system in the next few weeks. But with an estimated construction time of 3-4 years, this is far from an immediate solution. In the meantime, travelers should continue to plan for peak periods and allow plenty of extra time to get to the airport.

News Compressed

Stuff That Didn't Make It Into a Full Article

This is just a small compilation of the news and stories that we feel are worthy of being covered without having to feature them in a full-length article.

This is really nothing new and should only serve as a reminder. The Indonesian immigration office in Bali has once again, and probably with good reason, emphasized that foreigners who overstay their visas will be fined 1 million rupiah ($64) for each day of overstay. This applies to overstays of less than 60 days. Foreigners who overstay their visas by 60 days or more will be detained and deported at their own expense. While this is usually a straightforward and relatively quick process, some foreigners have spent a considerable amount of time in detention before the administrative process was completed and they were finally deported. Deportation is accompanied by a blacklisting for at least 6 months, which prevents the deportee from re-entering Indonesia. This blacklisting is automatic and the process of getting it removed is complicated and usually unsuccessful, which basically means that once you're on the list, you can't come back at all. To avoid the usual overstay fines, it is important to remember that your normal visa on arrival is valid for 30 days, including the day of arrival and the day of departure.

It seems that the annual influx of rubbish, caused by the change in currents and winds during the rainy season, has started again on Bali's south-west beaches such as Kuta, Legian and Seminyak. The Bali Post has reported that the Badung DLHK marine debris detection and early evacuation coordinator, I Made Gde Dwipayana, has confirmed an increasing amount of waste arriving at Kuta beach. According to Dwipayana, it is currently mainly large wooden logs, which are more difficult to handle and remove. However, with the onset of Bali's long rainy season, the peak of the annual garbage season is expected to arrive much later than usual, and the current focus on organic waste will soon be replaced by hundreds of tonnes of plastic waste. On 10 January, for example, local authorities cleared only about 8 tonnes of rubbish from Kuta beach.

A Romanian foreigner was badly beaten up by an angry mob over a payment dispute at a local cafe in North Kuta, better known as Canggu. According to reports, the man attempted to pay his bill at the cafe with a card, but was informed that the cafe only accepted cash payments. He then offered to collect some cash from his nearby accommodation, to which the cafe owner agreed. However, when the man left the cafe in the company of a cafe employee, he was surrounded by around 10 people who immediately began to assault him. The man reportedly suffered several bruises, abrasions, a cut on his lip and a black eye. He then returned to the cafe to seek shelter, but was reportedly also attacked by the cafe staff. Iptu I Komang Juniawan, head of the North Kuta Police Criminal Investigation Department, told the press that the victim had filed a police report and that the police were investigating the case.

A French national died while diving at SD Point in Nusa Penida over the weekend. According to reports the exact cause of his death is still unknown, but he was reportedly bleeding and foaming from the mouth when he was recovered from the water, indicating that he suffered from a ruptured lung. The boat crew administered oxygen and immediately took the man to a clinic at Toyapakeh, approximately a 10-15 minute boat ride away, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Bob, a 70-year-old, extremely wealthy widower, shows up at the Country Club with a breathtakingly beautiful and very sexy 25-year-old blonde-haired woman. She knocks everyone's socks off with her youthful sex appeal and charm. She hangs over Bob's arm and listens intently to his every word. His buddies at the club are all amazed. At the very first chance, they corner him and ask, "Bob, how did you get the trophy girlfriend?" Bob replies, "Girlfriend? She's my wife!" They are knocked over, but continue to ask. "So, how did you persuade her to marry you?" "I lied about my age," Bob replies. "Did you tell her you were only 50?" Bob smiles and says, "No, I told her I was 90."

A young man has a new job at a supermarket. It is his first day. The manager says hello to him. Then he gives him a mop and says, "Your first job is to mop the floor." "But I have a university degree," the young man says. "Oh, I understand. I'm sorry," says the manager. "Give me the mop. I can show you how."

There were two lovers, who were really into spiritualism and reincarnation. They promised that if one of them died, the second one would try to contact the partner in the other world exactly 30 days after their death. Unfortunately, a few weeks later, the young man died in a car accident. True to her word, his sweetheart tried to contact him in the spirit world exactly 30 days later. At the seance, she said, "John, John, this is Martha. Do you hear me?" A ghostly voice answered, "Yes Martha, this is John. I can hear you." Martha asked, "Oh John, what is it like where you are?" "It's beautiful. The sky is blue, there's a soft wind, sun shines most of the time." "What do you do all day?" asked Martha. "Well, Martha, we get up before sunrise, eat some good breakfast, and there's nothing but making love until noon. After lunch, we sleep until two and then make love again until about five. After dinner, we make love again until we fall asleep about 11 p.m." Martha was somewhat surprised. "Is that what heaven really is like?" "Heaven? I'm not in heaven, Martha." "Well, then, where are you?" "I'm a rabbit in Australia."

In a Catholic school restaurant, a nun puts a note in front of a pile of apples, "Take only one. God is watching." Next to the apples, there is a pile of cookies. A little boy writes his own note, "Take all you want. God is watching the apples."

A ventriloquist is performing with his dummy on his lap. He's telling a dumb blonde joke when a young platinum-haired beauty jumps to her feet. "What gives you the right to stereotype blondes that way?" she demands. "What does hair color have to do with my worth as a human being?" Flustered, the ventriloquist begins to stammer out an apology. "You keep out of this!" she yells. "I'm talking to that little jerk on your knee!"

Bernie was invited to his friend's home for dinner. Morris, the host, preceded every request to his wife by endearing terms, calling her Honey, My Love, Darling, Sweetheart, Pumpkin, etc. Bernie looked at Morris and remarked, "That's really nice, that after all these years that you have been married, you keep calling your wife those pet names." Morris hung his head and whispered, "To tell you the truth, I forgot her name three years ago!"

One morning, a father and his son were in the forest hunting rabbits. After about an hour, they finally came across some rabbit tracks. In between the tracks, there were these little round brown pellets, and the son said to his father, "Dad, what are those?" The father replied, "Those are smart pills. Try a couple." So the kid grabbed a couple of them and put them in his mouth. The boy made a funny face and said to his dad, "Ewww! Yuk! They taste like st." The father replied, "See, you're getting smarter already."

A wife, home from a shopping trip, was horrified to find her husband in bed with a young woman. Just as the wife was about to storm out of the house, her husband stopped her with the words: Before you leave, I want you to hear how all this came about... Driving home along the highway, I saw this young woman looking tired and bedraggled, so I brought her home and made her a meal from the roast beef you had forgotten in the fridge. She had only some old sandals on her feet, so I gave her a pair of good shoes you had discarded because they are of style. She was cold so I gave her a sweater I bought you for your birthday that you never wore because the color didn't suit you.. Her pants were worn out so I gave her a pair of yours that were perfectly good, but too small for you now. Then, when she was about to leave the house, she paused and asked: "Is there anything else your wife doesn't use anymore?"
