Bali Becomes a Magnet for Indian Travelers, Setting New Records

As the Pacific Asia Travel Association (PATA) Travel Mart approaches in New Delhi from October 4-6, 2023, Umberto Cadamuro, the COO of PACTO, Indonesia's leading Destination Management Company (DMC), shared insights on how the Indian travel market is influencing Bali and Indonesian tourism.

PACTO, a key player in Indonesian tourism since 1967, has offices across major Indonesian cities, including Bali. Cadamuro, the COO, leads from Bali when not on global business trips.

Recognizing India's growing outbound travel, PACTO partnered with Absolute Hospitality Services in 2006, tapping into Indian travelers' rising interest in Bali.

The Asia-Pacific tourism sector is rebounding post-pandemic and expected to become the world's largest outbound travel market by 2025, valued at around US$490 billion. India's outbound travel value is set to exceed US$42 billion by 2024, with 2022 seeing a 137% increase in Indian international travelers compared to the previous year.

According to Cadamuro, Indian tourists are returning to Bali and this trend seems set to continue.

In 2022, 268,590 Indians visited Indonesia, with Bali welcoming 77,880 Indian tourists in Q1 2023. These numbers exclude those landing in Medan or Jakarta before heading to Bali.

Indian tourists have made India the second-largest source market for Bali, after Australia. China, the UK, and the US complete the top five.

Indonesia has eased entry restrictions for Indian citizens, joining 92 countries with visa-free entry and no quarantine or vaccination requirements.

With Indian arrivals averaging 50,000 to 60,000 tourists monthly, Indonesia aims to increase this to 100,000 monthly, rivalling Australia's figures. The country is intensifying its marketing efforts in India and preparing for direct flights from India to Bali.

By June 2023, Bali had seen a

533.68% YoY increase in foreign tourist arrivals, totaling 2,429,284 visitors.

Cadamuro predicts India and Australia will compete for Bali's top source of foreign visitors, supported by Indonesian officials. PACTO's expertise makes them a go-to for Indian travelers in Bali.

Indian tourists prefer hotels and private villas in popular Bali destinations, but they are also exploring nearby islands.

Indian travelers seek shopping, adventure sports, and wellness experiences beyond traditional cultural sites. The influx of Indian tourism has led to the growth of authentic Indian restaurants in Bali.

This report underscores Bali's appeal to Indian travelers and its evolving tourism landscape.

Tragic Accident Claims Life of Young German Photographer Capturing Bali's Sunset

A Heartbreaking Accident at Pura Luhur Srijong Leaves a Promising Life Cut Short
In a heart-wrenching incident that has cast a pall over Bali's serene landscapes, a young German photographer met an untimely demise while capturing the island's famed sunset. Maximilian Alekander Tezner, a 22-year-old adventurer with a passion for photography, tragically lost his life on the afternoon of Tuesday, September 26, 2023, in a devastating accident at Pura Luhur Srijong in Banjar Dinas Payan, Antap Village, Tabanan, West Bali.

Maximilian, known to his friends as Max, had been enjoying his stay in Bali while residing at a hotel in the Kuta area. His journey, however, took a tragic turn when he and his companion, Selina Herbst, 21, decided to visit Pura Luhur Srijong. Their aim was to capture the mesmerizing sunset from the vantage point of the temple, which perches dramatically on an ocean-facing cliff.

The fateful incident unfolded at 5:50 p.m. when Max and Selina arrived at the temple, having traveled there via an online taxi service. Their plan was simple: relish the breathtaking Bali sunset and document its beauty through Max's camera lens. Little did they know that this endeavor would lead to a life-altering tragedy.

As the couple ventured westward towards the temple, their path brought them perilously close to the cliff's edge. The spectacular view of the ocean below, coupled with the allure of capturing the perfect shot, may have momentarily distracted them. It was at this moment that disaster struck.

In a heart-stopping turn of events, Max and Selina plunged off the cliff, plummeting into a ravine with a depth of 15 meters. The harrowing experience prompted them to scream for help and frantically reach for their mobile phones to contact their online taxi driver, Siauw Wandi Eka Sucipto. Responding swiftly, the driver sought assistance from a local resident, who, in turn, alerted the Skenadeg Precinct Police in Tabanan.

Rapidly responding to the emergency, the police descended the steep cliff and discovered Max's lifeless body. Tragically, he displayed visible signs of bleeding from his head and ears, indicating the severity of the fall.

Officer Riung, the Chief of the Selemadeg Police Precinct, confirmed the incident to the press, shedding light on the unfortunate turn of events. The authorities, recognizing the gravity of the situation, promptly called upon the Tabanan Water Police and the Tabanan Disaster Mitigation Team (BPBD) to assist in the delicate task of evacuating Max's lifeless body. Blame for the tragic fall is placed on a momentary lapse of caution, a stark reminder of the unforgiving consequences such lapses can bring. "Because he was incautious, the victim fell into the ravine," stated the local Chief of Police.

Meanwhile, I Wayan Budiharsa, the Salemadeg District Chief (Camat), revealed that Max had been exploring Bali for three weeks, with plans to return home just three days after the accident occurred. Following a preliminary examination at Tabanan Hospital, Max's remains were transferred to Sanglah General Hospital. Selina, Max's companion, recounted their shared intention of savoring a sunset from the cliff that supports Pura Luhur Srijong. It was during Max's attempt to immortalize this magical moment with his camera that tragedy struck, and he slipped, leading to the fatal fall.

The valiant efforts of the Water Police and BPBD Personnel eventually brought Max's lifeless body out of the ravine at 8:00 p.m., using a less treacherous route along Batu Lumbang Beach. This devastating accident serves as a poignant reminder of the fragility of life and the need for utmost caution when enjoying the natural wonders of Bali's breathtaking landscapes.

FUNNY

From the first time I saw her, I knew she was different. She had a unique, vibrant energy that I found captivating. Her laugh was infectious, and her smile was bright and genuine. I knew I wanted to get to know her better.

After spending some time getting to know each other, we decided to go on a date. We chose a local coffee shop because it was a nice, quiet place where we could have a good conversation. As we sat across from each other, I noticed how beautiful she was. Her eyes were a deep shade of brown, and her hair was a rich, dark color. She was wearing a simple, yet elegant, white dress that highlighted her figure. I felt myself falling in love with her.

As we continued our conversation, I realized that she was a very interesting person. She had a passion for travel and adventure, and she loved meeting new people. She was also very intelligent and had a great sense of humor. I found myself laughing at her jokes and smiling at her puns. I knew that I wanted to spend more time with her, and I invited her to my house for dinner that night.

She accepted my invitation and we had a wonderful evening. She was a great conversationalist and I enjoyed her company. We talked about our interests and hobbies, and I learned a lot about her. She was a very kind and thoughtful person, and I appreciated her genuine nature. I knew that I wanted to see her again, so I invited her to my next trip to Bali. She agreed, and we made plans to meet up again soon. I was excited to see her again and I couldn't wait to tell her about my trip to Bali.

As we drove to the airport, I felt nervous but also excited. I knew that this was going to be a special trip, and I was looking forward to spending more time with her.

When we arrived in Bali, we checked into our hotel and headed straight to the beach to relax.

We spent the day swimming in the ocean and sunbathing on the beach. We also explored the local markets and tried some delicious Balinese cuisine. It was a wonderful day, and I knew that I wanted to make the most of our time together.

The next day, we took a boat trip to a nearby island to explore its natural beauty. We hiked through lush green forests and swam in crystal clear waters. It was a truly unforgettable experience, and I knew that I wanted to remember it forever.

As we returned to the mainland, we stopped by a local market to buy some souvenirs. I bought a small wooden statue of a Balinese deity, and I gave it to her as a gift. She was very touched by the gesture and thanked me for it. I felt a sense of accomplishment knowing that I had made her happy. We continued our trip, exploring the island's many hidden gems and experiencing its rich culture. It was a truly wonderful trip, and I knew that I wanted to see her again.

As we said our farewells, I knew that I had found something special in her. She had a unique personality and a kind heart that I had never seen before. I knew that I wanted to see her again, and I invited her to my next trip to Bali. She accepted, and we made plans to meet up again soon. I was excited to see her again and I couldn't wait to tell her about my trip to Bali.
